THE MONEY GOD

By JOHN C. VAN DYKE

$1.00 net; postpaid, $1.10

Brilliant and suggestive ideas concerning modern business methods and money ideals in American life to-day. Written with vigor, earnestness, power and common-sense they make a strong and stirring appeal.

THE ESSENTIAL LIFE

By STEPHEN B. STANTON

$1.00 net; postpaid, $1.10

No profounder or more spirited essays on what may be called the philosophy of life have appeared in many seasons. Some of the essays are: "The Spirit in Man," "Time," "Individuality," "Imagination," "Happiness," "Morality," "Environment," "Spiritual Companionship," "Eternal Youth."

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY MEN OF LATITUDE

By EDWARD AUGUSTUS GEORGE

$1.25 net; postpaid, $1.35

Brilliant and fascinating studies of the lives and writings of a number of men of broad views in a most intolerant century. These men are Hales of Eton, Chillingworth, Browne, Whichcote, Taylor, More, Baxter and Smith.

THE MASTER OF THE INN

By ROBERT HERRICK

50 cents net; postpaid, 55 cents

A remarkable and deeply moving story of a rest and a cure for tired souls. An attractive little book similar to "Perfect Tribute."

READY MAY 2

TRUE STORIES OF CRIME

By ARTHUR TRAIN

Illustrated $1.50

Extraordinary stories of great crimes of our own day, fiction and yet fact, and told with the art of a true story-teller. There are eleven stories, and they deal with murder cases, will cases, wire-tapping, impostors, theft and legal tricks that are examples of romance in real life of the most extraordinary kind. The fact that these stories are true, that the deeds they describe actually took place only yesterday and in the very surroundings in which we live and work, gives the book a character of history and of contemporary observation which outweighs the suggestion of the cleverest fiction.

MONOLOGUES

By BEATRICE HERFORD

Drawings by O. Herford $1.25

Six of Miss Herford's famous monologues are now for the first time brought together in a book. Her original and inimitable humor, which has delighted so many people from the stage, and has won for her so great a reputation as a monologist, make these little talks masterpieces of witty observation and genial fun. The monologues are: "A Sociable Seamstress," "The Professional Boarder," "An English Lady Packing," "The Bazaar," "Piazza Ladies," and "The Country Store."

"Not only are her monologues mercilessly true and satirical, but they illustrate the power of suggestion at its highest."—The Sun.

THE BIRDS OF TIERRA DEL FUEGO

By RICHARD CRAWSHAY, Captain, Reserve of Officers: Late Inniskilling Dragoons

For ornithologists the chief interest will naturally centre in the Birds, which, the author states, are, he believes, the most comprehensive collection yet made in the island, including many recorded from there for the first time. Amongst these are a male and a female of the very rare and exquisitely beautiful little Magellan Plover (Pluvianellus sociabilis), only three other examples of which are known to exist in collections—one of these having been obtained by Captain P. P. King, R.N., on the "Adventure" and "Beagle" Survey, 1826-1836; another by the "Astrolabe" and "Zelee" Antarctic Expedition.

PORTRAITS IN SUFFOLK HOUSES (WEST)

By Rev. EDMUND FARRER, F.S.A.

A detailed list of such portraits as remain in our country houses was long ago the idea of the late Director of the National Portrait Gallery, Sir George Scharf, K.C.B., and the present volume is an attempt on the part of the compiler to supply such for the County of Suffolk. The work has been undertaken and carried out with the permission and by the help of every owner of portraits in the western division of the county, that being the only portion dealt with in the present volume.

A HISTORY OF ORIENTAL CARPETS BEFORE 1800

Including a Description of hitherto unfigured Carpets in the Royal Collections of Sweden and Denmark and the Imperial Collection of Turkey.

By F. R. MARTIN.

This work, which is uniform in size and style with that issued by the Austrian Government in 1892, is being printed at the Imperial Press, Vienna.

Since it was first announced in February, 1906, the author has had placed at his disposal so much interesting and new material that it has been found necessary to considerably enlarge the contents of the book. Instead of the 100 illustrations mentioned in the preliminary prospectus the text will contain more than 400 reproductions illustrating the history of ancient carpets. In addition there will be about fifty-two wholly or partly-coloured plates, instead of the thirty announced previously. This enlargement of the original scheme having entailed so much additional expense it is necessary that the final subscription price be £20 net. After complete publication the price must be raised still further.

1 vol., with 324 coloured photogravures in original size; sewed, in a strong box. £21 5s. net.

— or bound in handsome leather with brass ornaments, the whole reproduced from a design by Dürer. £26 5s. net.

March 15, 1908, the above prices were raised to £25 and £30 respectively. The work cannot be reprinted.

350 NUMBERED COPIES PRINTED FOR SALE, A NUMBER OF WHICH HAVE BEEN SUBSCRIBED.

PRAYER BOOK OF THE EMPEROR MAXIMILIAN I.

With Drawings by ALBRECHT DÜRER and other Artists.

Photographic Facsimile in from 4 to 10 Colours, edited by KARL GIEHLOW, under the Patronage of the Royal Imperial Ministry of Education in Vienna and the Royal Ministry of Education and Medicine in Berlin.

Three copies were printed on vellum, of which one is still to be obtained at the price of £250.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE GORLESTON PSALTER

A Manuscript of the beginning of the fourteenth century in the library of C. W. DYSON PERRINS. Described in relation to other East Anglian books of the period by SYDNEY C. COCKERELL.

London: Printed at the Chiswick Press, 1907

This handsome volume, though primarily, as the title announces, a detailed description and history of the magnificent fourteenth century Manuscript belonging to Mr. Dyson Perrins, known as the Gorleston Psalter, is at the same time a carefully written monograph of the East Anglian school of miniature painting and ornamentation of manuscripts of the period. There is little doubt that the Gorleston Psalter was written and illuminated by several artists of different style for Roger Le Bigod, fifth Earl of Norfolk, and Marshal of England who died in 1306. In 1823 it was presented to the Hon. Richard Aldworth-Neville. The present owner acquired it from his descendant, the sixth Baron Braybrooke of Audley End.

1 vol., folio, with large folding frontispiece in colours of the Great Carpet presented by Mr. Robert Bell to the Girdlers' Company in 1634, 17 other coloured plates, and 82 plates in monochrome, half-morocco neat, gilt top. £1 4s. net.

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF THE JAPANESE EMPIRE

VOL. II. COMPRISING THE LITERATURE IN EUROPEAN LANGUAGES FROM 1894-1906.

With Additions and Corrections to the First Volume and a Supplement to Léon Pagès' "Bibliographie Japonaise."

Compiled by F. von WENCKSTERN.

"The Bibliography before us leaves no further excuse for ignorance on the subject (viz., Japan). . . . We strongly recommend Embassies, Legations and Consulates General, Foreign Offices, Foreign Chambers of Commerce, Libraries, Clubs, and other public institutions, as well as newspaper offices and public writers, therefore, to purchase a copy of this excellent work."—The Eastern World, August 17th, 1907.

EMMANUEL CHURCH BOOKBY*WORCESTER, McCOMB and CORIAT

Of course you have noticed everywhere the marvelous spread of this new religious movement. It leaps from state to state, city to city, village to village. Local newspapers are full of it. Thousands of inquiries are coming to us by mail and telephone. We shall sell many thousands. It is a book that knows neither good nor bad times. Panics mean nothing to it, for it is based upon a living, deeply religious and highly vitalized movement that is spreading like prairie fire.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. J. HOLMAN & Co. have just ready "The So-called Peters-Hilprecht Controversy," by H. V. Hilprecht, which contains the record of the proceedings and report of the committee appointed by the University of Pennsylvania to investigate the charges against Professor Hilprecht and his reply to his critics. This material is now published for the first time.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have secured for this country, and will publish immediately, "The Blue Lagoon," by H. De Vere Stacpoole, one of the best selling books in London at the present moment, which the London Review of Reviews pronounces "a story which is unlike any other story that ever was written." They also announce new editions of "Italian Days and Ways," by Anne Hollingsworth Wharton; "The Lonely House," by Mrs. A. L. Wister; "Pigs in Clover," by Frank Danby, which has been in steady demand since its publication several years ago; also, "The Good Neighbor," by Mary E. Richmond, of which two editions have already been sold, not including a special Philadelphia edition that was brought out separately.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have brought out this week the following books, publication of which has been delayed several weeks: "The Essential Life," by Stephen B. Stanton, a collection of essays, both profound and spirited, on what may be called the philosophy of life; "The Money God," by John C. Van Dyke, author of "The Desert," etc., brilliant and suggestive ideas concerning modern business methods and money ideals in American life to-day; "True Stories of Crime from the [New York City] District Attorney's Office," by Arthur Train, thirteen narratives that are literally and, in fact, true stories of crime; "Monologues," six original monologues by Beatrice Herford, including "A Sociable Seamstress," "The Professional Boarder," "An English Lady Packing," "The Bazaar," "Piazza Ladies" and "The Country Store," all of them masterpieces of witty observation and general fun; also, "The Master of the Inn," by Robert Herrick, a remarkable bit of idealism which makes a strong appeal to sensitive and thoughtful people who are looking for a "way out" without closing the door upon life altogether.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready the long-expected sequel to "Fair Margaret," by F. Marion Crawford, which makes its appearance under the title of "The Prima-donna." This new international novel, probably the most popular story Mr. Crawford has written since the "Sarinnesca" series, takes up the story of Margaret Donne when she has become the greatest singer in the world, the scenes changing from the lobbies and behind the curtain of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City to the deck of an ocean liner, thence to English country houses and the streets and drawing-rooms of London. The end of the story is a well-conceived climax, and leaves the reader wondering as to the further history of the various characters, which will be given in the sequel entitled "The Diva's Ruby." They will shortly bring out the sixth instalment of Sir Walter Besant's magnum opus, "The Survey of London," in which is completed an unbroken history of the English metropolis from its earliest beginnings to the end of the eighteenth century. The new Winston Churchill novel, "Mr. Crewe's Career," will be published on May 9 instead of May 6, as announced.

Benson, Rob. Hugh. Lord of the world. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1908. c. 25+352 p. D. cl., †$1.50. Father Benson lays his vision of the final outcome of "Modernism," materialism and "psycho-fads" well into the middle of the present century. The spiritual rulers of all denominations are shown struggling with the new order of the world, to which even the great Catholic church has been obliged to yield. After showing the outcome of all religions and all cults of all nations, the story brings out that all human invention in material things and all intellectual dissipation of undisciplined minds will be found unsatisfying, and that sooner or later the great heart of humanity will be ready to accept once more "the Lord of the World."

Birkhead, Alice. The master-knot. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1908. 320 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Cupid ties the master knot in the lives of two women. One is a brilliantly educated companion to a selfish woman, who one day forgets her at a picnic. A young Irish physician befriends her and offers her marriage, taking her home to Ireland and race horses. The other is a great actress, who also writes successful books and exercises great influence on the first woman. The Irish life is described with spirit. Both women after a time learn to appreciate the faithful love offered them in place of their visionary ideals and self-deceptions.

Bright southern Italy is the scene. The King, in order to right a wrong he did his brother, Charles Martel, by the usurpation of Charles' kingdom, betroths, at his death-bed, his beautiful granddaughter, Giovanna d'Anjou, to Andreas of Hungary, the rightful heir to the throne, who arrives in Naples on the eve of the King's death. No sooner had the King breathed his last, when Giovanna defies her grandfather's will, disregards her promise and scorns the claims of Andreas. A struggle for the throne follows. After many dramatic scenes the sword decides.

Chamberlain, Arthur H: The conditions and tendencies of technical education in Germany. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1908. c. 108 p. D. cl., 50 c.

Author is professor of education and principal of the Normal School of Manual Training, Art, and Domestic Economy, Throop Polytechnic Institute, Pasadena, California. An account of the present condition and tendencies of vocational training in the country that has experimented upon it most fully. It describes the continuation schools, trade schools, schools for the building and textile trades, for foremen, etc., the secondary and the higher technical schools and the art trade schools. Bibliography (4 p.).

Chambers, Rob. W: Some ladies in haste. N. Y., Appleton, 1908. c. 242 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

A young New York clubman is cured of a habit of intemperate smoking by a clever physician through mental suggestion and by the "absent treatment." He is so charmed by the ease with which he gives up his cigars that he experiments through hypnotism upon five couples unknown to each other; in several he rectifies faults and suggests virtues, in others who are not at all intellectual he suggests "fads" and "hobbies." He mixes things up fearfully, the couples coming together in a most unconventional manner, the result being anything but satisfactory. As the young hypnotist is unable to reverse the treatment many laughable episodes are produced.

Chester, G: Randolph. Get-rich-quick Wallingford: a cheerful account of the rise and fall of an American business buccaneer. Phil., Henry Altamus Co., [1908.] c. '07, '08. 5-448 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

A series of cleverly conceived swindles perpetrated by J. Rufus Wallingford, a jovial, extravagant and luxury-loving financier and promoter, whose remarkable personality and scheming mind enable him to acquire great wealth, which he immediately proceeds to get rid of as quickly as possible. The principal cities of the east and middle west of the United States are the scenes of his operations. The scope of his activities ranges from the manufacture of carpet-tacks to the control of the entire wheat market of the United States. A satire on the "promoter" of the day.

A fourteenth century romance of Brittany of knights and tournaments, single combats and trials of champions, of chivalry, adventure and heroism. Bertrand is the unloved elder son of a noble family. His lack of good looks has made his mother neglect him, so that his manners are as rough as his features are ill favored. A little girl, Tephaine, one day comes into his life and quickens him to his first heroic deed. Afterward he goes through many discreditable adventures, but Tephaine, grown to be a woman, saves him through her simple faith.

The papers which make up this volume were written at various periods, from 1896 to 1900, but have a certain unity as being the result of an attempt, prosecuted during some years, to understand what is the real condition of Turkey, and of some neighboring countries, and how that condition has arisen. Two supplementary chapters on Turkey in 1907 have been added to the present edition and a few statements have been altered (such as that the Obrenovich dynasty still reigns in Servia) which are obviously no longer correct. The story opens in Washington and introduces Marshall Treemon, a self-made man and newly appointed Senator, in love with Victoria Wemyss, daughter of Lord Wemyss, the British ambassador. It is soon made evident that there is a bar to this attachment involving a secret connected with Treemon's parentage which he seeks to track down, going to New York for that purpose and living for a time on the East Side among a band of socialists. One of them, an attractive woman, has been involved in the past with a young English captain, who had in London become betrothed to Victoria Wemyss before her coming to America. But the Senator wins the English girl just as the secret of his life threatens to ruin his hopes.

This account of Sir Richard Granville, who was "the King's General in the west" during the principal part of the Great Rebellion in the seventeenth century, has already to a large extent appeared in "A history of the Granville family," which was privately printed by the Rev. Roger Granville, sub-dean of Exeter Cathedral, in 1895. It is hoped, however, that this brief sketch of his life will reach a wider circle of readers and fill up a gap in modern studies of that interesting period of English history. Sir Richard Granville was an adherent to the royal cause, and his character has been the subject of attack and vindication from the days of Clarendon on.

Hainsselin, M. T. The Isle of Maids: a romance of the Mediterranean. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1908. 308 p. cl., $1.50.

After leaving Oxford two young Englishmen, with ample means, plan a novel excursion to obtain rest and a fresh set of ideas. They seek an uninhabited isle in the Aegean archipelago where they can play Robinson Crusoe, and set out at once in their yacht. The isle they select for the experiment, and which they believe to be uninhabited, they discover in a very dramatic way is the temporary home of six young girls of modern Greece, whose fathers own the isle and have made it comfortable for them to live the simple life for a few months in the summer. They dress in Greek costumes and indulge in all kinds of outdoor sports. The men's yacht is stolen and the girls are obliged to let them remain for a time on the island. A good deal of love making results.

The long life of George Bancroft (1800-1891) almost covered the nineteenth century; and during the greater part of it, as scholar, historian, statesman and diplomatist, he had a wider personal acquaintance with the great figures among his contemporaries than perhaps any other American. The biography is based upon the great mass of Mr. Barcroft's diaries, letters and papers placed by his family in Mr. Howe's hands some time after his death. Aside from the work being a biography of unusual interest and importance, it is a unique contribution to the whole personal history of the time. It contains descriptions of Student life at Göttingen, 1818-1820; Visits to Goethe and to Wolff and Humboldt; Travels in Italy and France; Meetings with Lord Byron, Lafayette, Thorwaldsen; His experience as Secretary of the Navy; Minister to England in 1846; Visit to Paris in 1847-49, and anecdotes of Guizot, Lamartine, Benjamin Constant and Louis Philippe; Minister to Germany, 1867-1874; Intimate friendship with von Moltke, Bismarck and Emperor William I.; Anecdotes of Thiers, the Empress Eugenie, etc. Bibliography (11 p.). The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 25, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A MENACE TO THE POST-CARD BUSINESS.

THE post-card business which in recent years has become such a profitable side line for booksellers and stationers is threatened with serious loss through the pernicious activity of certain unscrupulous manufacturers and dealers who are marketing at an alarming rate coarse, suggestive and, in some cases, positively obscene cards. It needs but a glance at many of the displays made by dealers to convince the most casual observer of the truth of this statement. If further proof were necessary it may be found in the reports of the post office inspectors who have found that the sending of improper cards through the mails has grown greatly during the past year, and in the warning to the postmasters to watch carefully for any mailing of even suggestive cards and orders to enforce the extreme penalty of the law in order to stop the nuisance. As a matter of fact, millions of these cards have already been confiscated and destroyed.

This is as it should be, and it is to be hoped that all self-respecting dealers, who have their best interests at heart, will combine to force these unscrupulous and irresponsible manufacturers and dealers out of business. Pests of this character deserve no consideration.

As the demand for the better grades of post-cards is steadily increasing, and as such cards may be had at almost any price, there is absolutely no excuse for keeping any others. The so-called "comics," in many cases, are not funny, but coarse and suggestive, and a dealer who exposes them for sale in the hope of catching the "nimble penny" of the low-minded is certain to suffer the loss of the trade of his more fastidious customers. He will do more; he will help to bring into disrepute, and place a stigma upon a line of goods that, if properly handled, promises to yield to the dealer a handsome income for years to come.

The dealer in post-cards should look upon himself, in a measure, as a factor in the education of his patrons, especially in the smaller towns and rural districts, as he also will certainly be held responsible for the tone of the goods that he distributes. His excuse that he must keep that for which there is a demand will avail him but little in the judgment of the majority of those of his patrons who hold the coarse and suggestive in art as well as in literature to be an offense to good taste and morals. In the case of improper post-cards the dealer who persists in catering to low tastes will sooner or later find himself in the toils of the law, and the respectable dealer will breathe easier when the gates of the jail have closed upon the last of his worst enemies.

A $100 PRIZE FOR A PUBLISHING SUGGESTION.

ONE of the largest and most important publishing houses in New York City is offering a prize of one hundred dollars to any one in the United States or Canada, whether he be a bookseller, librarian or a reader, who may suggest a satisfactory subject and title for a five-volume set of books.

The following points will be considered as most important in making decisions:

- (1) The most attractive title for popular sale.
- (2) The subject which will appeal to the largest number of people.
- (3) The set of books on which the sale is most likely to continue.

Suggestions will be received up to June 1. The decision will be announced on July 15 by the publishers through THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and no appeal can be made from their judgment. Application for this prize should be addressed "Suggestions," care of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, P. O. Box 943, New York City.

INVITATION TO CONVENTION OF AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSO- CIATION.

To the Members of the American Booksellers' Association.

As has been announced by letter and by the several trade journals, the eighth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association will be held in New York City, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 19 and 20, 1908.

The convention will be called to order by president W. Millard Palmer, on Tuesday morning, May 20, at ten o'clock. The session will be held in the large assembly room of the Hotel Victoria, at the S. E. corner of Broadway and Twenty-seventh Street, and the Victoria will be the headquarters of the Association during the convention.

From advices received from members this convention promises to be very largely attended, and it is earnestly hoped that every member will make an effort to be present in person, or, if that is impossible, that he will send a representative. A large representative gathering cannot fail to bring results of material benefit to the trade. The question of a better price on fiction, for example, is one thing that is coming before this meeting for discussion. It is conceded on all sides that it is poor business policy to continue to retail $1.50 fiction for $1.08. The cry comes from every section of the country that something be done to better conditions. What is the best course to pursue? Is it a matter for local arrangement or should the national body take it in hand? How to bring it about without injustice to any one concerned is for this convention to decide.

The officers of the American Booksellers' Association cordially invite to the sessions of the convention every one who is identified in any way with the book business, either as author, publisher, travelling man or salesman. We want to make this invitation broad and sweeping—interest in the book business will be the only credential required. This is a convention of the booktrade, and all who are in any way interested will be most cordially welcomed.

The eighth annual dinner will be given on Tuesday evening, May 20, at the rooms of the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Those who were hunting in vain for seats last year might better file their applications early, as the space of the Aldine Association's dining room is limited, and this banquet is going to be one never to be forgotten.

Any member of this Association, or any member of the trade in general who is unable to be present at the convention who has any suggestions to offer, is requested to address them to me at 27 East Twenty-second Street, New York City, and the matter will be presented to the convention.

We have tried to make it plain that the convention next month welcomes to its sessions every bookseller, every department store selling books, every publisher, every author, every travelling man and every salesman in the country.

HARRY F. DAVIS, Sec'y.

PITTSBURGH, April 20, 1908.

OBITUARY.

JACOB F. DENGLER

It is with deep regret that we note the sudden death, on April 17, at Seattle, Wash., of Jacob F. Dengler, the universally beloved and respected representative of E. P. Dutton & Co. Dengler spent the evening of the 16th inst., at the Moore Theater, with his friend Will D. Wilson, manager of the book department of Lowman & Hanford. Starting for home, shortly after midnight—on April

JACOB F. DENGLER.

17—Dengler and Wilson parted at Second Avenue and Madison Street. It had begun to rain and the sidewalk was slippery. Dengler when part way down the Madison Street hill slipped and fell in such a manner that his left leg was caught under him. He tried to get up, but found that his leg had been fractured, and then called for assistance. He was promptly taken to a hospital, where an operation was performed. Dengler apparently recovered from the effects of the anesthetic; indeed, after the operation he conversed with the doctors for a short time, when, without warning, he sank back in his attendant's arms dead. Will D. Wilson and his old friend W. R. Spinney, of Thomas Y. Crowell & Co., who was in Seattle at the time, made the arrangements to have his body sent home, at Highwood Park, Weehawken, N. J., where the funeral services were held on the evening of April 25.

"Jake" Dengler was born in Germany, October 14, 1860, and was brought to this country by his parents when an infant. His early youth was spent in the old village of Williamsburgh, L. I., now a part of Greater New York, Borough of Queens. In September, 1876, he entered the employ of G. W. Carleton & Co., and seven years later left them to take a position with E. P. Dutton & Co. After a short period of initiation Dengler started to travel for the Duttons, and from 1883 until the day of his death he represented them on the road, at one time or another, from Maine to California. In later years he covered only the larger Eastern cities and the Pacific Coast. Two years ago, on April 18, Dengler and his friend C. C. Skepmoes, of the Oxford University Press, who shared his room, had a narrow escape from the San Francisco earthquake.

Dengler's life was one of loyal devotion to his firm, to his family and to his friends. Never showy or demonstrative, he nevertheless was, as C. W. Sanders, of the St. Paul Book and Stationery Company, wrote to Mr. Macrae, of E. P. Dutton & Co., "the greatest friend-maker who ever travelled." A few hours after the news of his death became known dozens of messages of regret from different parts of the country were received by Dengler's firm. When the news was broken to his associates in the store there was not a dry eye—every one was too much moved to even utter a word. Those whom he had left only a few days before, in good health and as robust and strong in appearance as ever, could hardly realize that the story was true. Edward H. Lapham, of A. C. McClurg & Co., wrote: "Your representative, Mr. Dengler, left us last Saturday evening, [April 11,] in perfect health and in good spirits, on his coast trip; therefore it was a terrible shock to hear of his sudden death in Seattle yesterday. It was always a pleasure to have him call on us, as he always had a pleasant smile and good word for every one." The J. K. Gill Co. telegraphed: "Dengler's death great shock—his character had greatly endeared him to us." John H. Cook, the president of G. W. Dillingham Co., successors to Dengler's first employers, writes us: "Dengler was much liked by his employers and fellow-clerks. Personally, I regarded his character from his boyhood until his death as absolutely spotless, and I always esteemed him."

And so the record runs—clear from all sources. All who knew Dengler loved him, and all are now ready to lay a tribute of respect and of loving memory on his bier. Beloved by all, he will be sincerely mourned by those of his colleagues who appreciate a man who was first and always square—square with his house, with his family, with his friends and with himself. Dengler was a member of Atlantic Lodge, No. 178, F. and A. M., of the Royal Arcanum, (Hoboken Council, No. 99,) and a charter member of The Booksellers' League.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CHARLES EDWARD RICHMOND, vice-president of the Richmond & Backus Company, of Detroit, Mich., died in that city on April 7, of injuries sustained getting off a street car about ten days previously. Mr. Richmond had suffered from locomotor ataxia for eight or ten years, and was compelled to use crutches. Mr. Richmond was a son of the late A. Richmond, one of the founders of the well-known stationery manufacturing house, and was born in Detroit August 1, 1862. He was made a director in his father's firm when it was incorporated in 1885. The firm was originally known as Richmond & Backus, and began business in Detroit in 1842 as printers, publishers and stationers. In March, 1897, the firm took over the business of the Peninsular Printing Company and was incorporated as the Richmond & Backus Company.

JOHN H. MANDIGO, for twenty years sporting editor of the New York Sun, died on April 15, in Brooklyn, N. Y., at the age of fifty. He began his newspaper career as an office boy at the age of seventeen, and after several years developed into an expert baseball reporter. He was one of the best scorers in the country, and was considered the first man to write what is known as a "technical story" of a ball game.

HENRY CHADWICK, known all over the country as the "Father of Baseball," died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on April 20. Mr. Chadwick was born at Exeter, Eng., on October 5, 1824. He was one of the most widely-known writers on sporting topics in the United States, and was for years the authority on baseball, at whose suggestion many of the rules and methods of the game were altered. "Chadwick's Game of Baseball," his "The League Guide" and other books on cricket and baseball are standard text books on their subjects.

NOTE ON AUTHORS.

It is now an open secret that the author of "Another Three Weeks," a burlesque of Mrs. Glyn's novel, is James S. Metcalfe, of Life.

LINCOLN STEFFENS has ceased his active connection with The American Magazine, and will for several years at least devote himself to sociological studies.

MRS. DANIEL LOTHROP, ("Margaret Sidney,") author of the famous Pepper books, etc., reached New York Saturday, April 11, on the Baltic, after a year abroad with her daughter, Miss Margaret Lothrop. She will spend two weeks in Washington and reopen her home, "The Wayside," Concord, Mass., on May 1.

HENRY WOOD has just placed with Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Co. an important work entitled "The New Old Healing," in which he discusses fully the Christian Healing Movement of the present day, which, he claims, was largely formulated by himself as long ago as 1893, and traces its underlying principles through the period of remote history, including Biblical times, showing that the modern movement is essentially the same as the earlier manifestations of the power of mind over matter.

AFTER a year of secrecy, during which some pretty wild guesses have been made as to who was the author of "As the Hague Ordains: Journal of a Russian Prisoner's Wife in Japan," (Holt,) it is at last revealed that she is Miss Eliza Ruhamah Scidmore, a resident of Washington, a prominent member of the National Geographic Society, author of a number of standard books, including some on Alaska, "Jinriksha Days in Japan," "Westward to the Far East," etc.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

WHEN Thomas Bailey Aldrich was a young man he lived at what is now 33 West Eighth Street, New York City. He soon made the acquaintance of the literary men of those days—Bayard Taylor, Stoddard, Stedman, Fitz-James O'Brien, George Arnold and N. P. Willis. In the May Scribner Ferris Greenslet, who has been chosen the biographer of Aldrich, will have a paper describing the early career of "Aldrich in New York," with many illustrations from contemporary portraits.

It is reported from China that the oldest newspaper in the world, the Pekin Gazette, is about to suspend publication. The first number appeared in 911 A.D., and since 1351, more than a century before the discovery of America, it has appeared regularly as the official government organ of the imperial court. The Chinese Government will now supplant the publication by the Government Gazette, which will be much larger and conducted along more modern lines. It will be the official government organ.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Atkinson, Mentzer & Grover have removed to 223-225 Washington Street.

CHICAGO, ILL.—On May 1, Powner's Bookstore, until now at 180 Market Street, will open up at 107 South Clark Street, where Mr. Powner has secured a fine store in a good location. Mr. Powner, who was formerly at Greensburg, Ind., makes a specialty of rare books.

GALVESTON, TEX.—The Gust-Feist Co., booksellers and stationers, making a specialty of German books, have sold out to Purdy Brothers, formerly of Houston, Tex. The business will be continued on the same lines at the old stand.

JOLIET, ILL.—Frank Hall, formerly of Dayton, O., has succeeded F. W. Henley, bookseller, here.

MENA, ARK.—Clarence B. Nall has succeeded to the book business of E. H. Donaldson.

NEW YORK CITY.—John R. Anderson Co. have removed to 76 Fifth Avenue. They now occupy a store on the ground floor where the trade will be welcome to look over their many book bargains.

NEW YORK CITY.—E. J. Clode will remove on May 1 to 425 East Twenty-fourth Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—James A. Jenkins, bookseller, is now located at 313 Madison Avenue, one door south of Forty-second Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Ivan Somerville, the publisher of special books, is retiring from business, owing to the loss of his plant in the Parker Building fire. He is making arrangements to transfer his books to other lists.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Strashun Book Company has been incorporated by Alexander Strashun and Harry Goldstein, both of New York, and Abraham Lipkind, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Tabard Inn Book Company has been incorporated with a capital stock, reported as $150,000, to sell wholesale and retail books, by William F. Smith, Seymour Eaton and Henry Reives.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.—Samuel Belden has been appointed receiver for the Texas Book and Stationery Company. The petition presented by F. W. Church, one of the members of the firm, sets out that the assets of the company are $13,000 and that the debts are about $9500. It is asserted that, while the business is a paying one, creditors are threatening to take extraordinary means to collect their bills, and for that reason a receiver is asked for.

SCRANTON, PA.—M. Norton, bookseller, newsdealer and stationer, for many years on Lackawanna Avenue, has removed to 116 Washington Avenue, which has become an important business centre. A writer in The Scranton Truth, noting Mr. Norton's removal, says: "Through a long life of earnest personal endeavor Mr. Norton has made the sale of newspapers an important feature of his store. He was the pioneer in that line long before the incorporation of Scranton, and I am glad to know that he is still alert and active, and a staunch believer in the value of the daily newspaper. It will give me pleasure to see him prosper in his new location." A wish that is echoed by all his friends in the trade.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY have in press a book by Senator Albert J. Beveridge, entitled "Work and Habits."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish in this country the "Life and Correspondence" of John Delane, who was editor of the London Times in its period of great power, between 1840 and 1876.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY has just published a new religious book by Henry C. Mabie, entitled "How Does the Death of Christ Save Us?" a discussion of the doctrine of the Atonement.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have in preparation a set of post-cards, comprising forty-eight different colored reproductions of pictures by Underwood, Ethel F. Betts and Anna W. Betts, all of which attracted considerable attention when first published in calendar form.

DODD, MEAD & Co. announce that in order to take care of the large advance orders they have been obliged to prepare a second large edition, before publication day, of William Tillinghast Merrill's new story, "Meryl." McCutcheon's latest story, "The Husbands of Edith," to be brought out on the same date, April 25, promises to outrun the author's former successes.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce for publication before the beginning of the next school year "The Administration of Schools in the United States," by Professors Samuel T. Dutton and David S. Snedder, of Teachers' College, Columbia University. This volume will be a somewhat broad treatment of all the problems involved in the control and maintenance, organization and management of American schools.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish shortly "The Trade and Administration of the Chinese Empire," by Hosea Ballou Morse; "India and the Empire," by the Hon. M. de P. Webb; and "Turkey in Europe," by Sir Charles Eliot. The last-named book was formerly published under the pseudonym of "Odysseus." The forthcoming new edition, besides giving the name of the real author of the book, contains an additional chapter on the events in Turkey from 1869 to the present day.

THE tickets are now ready for the dinner of The American Booksellers' Association to be given at the Aldine Association rooms, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City, May 20. Owing to the large increase in the attendance last year, which severely taxed the accommodations of the Aldine Association, and to avoid overcrowding, it has been decided to strictly limit the number of tickets: early application is advisable. Tickets may be had from F. D. Lacy, in care of G. P. Putnam's Sons, 27 West Twenty-third Street, or from Charles A. Burkhardt, 31 West Twenty-third Street, or any member of the Banquet Committee. As usual, novel souvenirs may be expected.

MISS L. AVERILL COLE has succeeded the late Philip Mason at the Riverside Press, in charge of the designing and decorating of the fine bindings published by Houghton, Mifflin Co. Miss Cole is an expert binder, and has only recently returned from Europe. She is an American, but was educated in Berlin and London, and studied bookbinding for three years under Professor Jacobs, of Brussels. She obtained first prize at an international exhibition in Brussels where there were over 200 exhibitors. For additional experience she taught binding in London, and while there had orders to bind some books for such connoisseurs as the Duke and Duchess of Westminster, Lord Grosvenor and Lord and Lady Beauchamp.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish on May 16 a lively humorous story, with an irrepressible hero and a titled heroine, by Harrison Rhodes, entitled "The Adventures of Charles Edward," a feature of which will be twenty-four full-page pen-and-ink sketches by Penrhyn Stanlaws, the celebrated artist. Mr. Rhodes will be remembered as the author of two successful novels, "The Lady and the Ladder" and "The Flight to Eden," and also as the collaborator with Anthony Hope in the play "Captain Dieppe," made known to American audiences a year or so ago by John Drew. To introduce Mr. Rhodes's new book, Little, Brown & Co. have printed the first chapter, "His Impertinence," separately, for free distribution.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. will bring out early in May the Emmanuel Church book, by the Rev. Elwood Worcester, the Rev. Samuel Mc-

Comb and Isador H. Coriat, M.D., on "Religion and Medicine," already fully described by us. The movement of Emmanuel Church in Boston in healing disease and vice by religious influence is attracting ever more attention, is denounced as vehemently as it is stoutly defended, and this book, which explains and defends the movement, is therefore certain of a large sale. Two books which were announced to be published by this firm this spring have been postponed until the early fall. They are "Ibsen as He Should be Read," by Edwin Bjorkman, and "Surgical Memoirs," by James G. Mumford, M.D.

JOHN LANE COMPANY publish this week Nimrod's "Condition of Hunters, their Choice and Management," the veterinary portions of which are brought up to date by Frank Townend Barton. The illustrations include the original Turner lithographs. Charles James Apperley, better known as "Nimrod," stands out pre-eminently as one of the greatest of writers on fox hunting and hunters. They have also just ready, in the Country Handbooks series, "The Insect Book," a pocket volume on insect life of the garden, waterside, woodland and meadow, by W. Percival Westell, and illustrated with photographs by R. B. Imisson; and "Ashes," a novel by a Sardinian author, Grazia Deledda, a picture of simple country life set in a poetic background of human suffering, telling the tale of a mother's love and abnegation.

HARPER & BROTHERS have taken over from Romeyn Beck Hough, the son of Franklin B. Hough, first Commissioner of Forestry in this country, an edition of his "Handbook of the Trees of the Northern United States and Canada, East of the Rocky Mountains." The work is distinguished enough in beauty and authority to arouse interest in the casual observer of trees, in the technical botanist, even in the lumberman. About eight hundred reproductions made from photographs taken by the author, show proportionately the size of the trunk and bark characteristics, the flowers, leaves, twigs and the woody structure in cross-section of each tree. A measured background to indicate size, an entirely original device, a small map indicating the localities where each specimen is found, a key and a glossary, all contribute to the completeness of this trusty guide to trees.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just brought out a story of adventure entitled "The Coast of Chance," by Esther and Lucia Chamberlain. This extraordinary story of the big game of life played to the utmost with masculine bravado and feminine finesse, turns about a sapphire ring of antique design and immense value which was stolen while on private exhibition in San Francisco, Cal. It then comes into the possession of a wealthy society girl. In spite of herself, and in spite of her fiancé, she falls in love with the man whom she knows to be the thief—a man character among the most striking in recent fiction. As a souvenir to the booktrade the publishers have made a reproduction exactly on the lines of the description of the ring—the "Chatworth Sapphire"—as described in the book. It shows an old gold heathen god curled round himself, with his head between his knees, and a big blue stone on top. The reproduction is an unusual and striking piece of jewelry, and is accompanied by a poster on stiff cardboard to hang up in the show window, calling attention to the fact that it is an exact reproduction of the famous ring, valued at $75,000, told about, etc., in "The Coast of Chance."

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. will publish shortly "The Complete Lawn Tennis Player," which treats of the science and technique of the game, the varying methods of the world's greatest players, the training of the body and the mind, and national and international competitions. Expert advice is offered on the construction and maintenance of courts, the management of clubs and tournaments, refereeing and other practical matters. The writer of the book is A. Wallis Myers, whose name is known among expert players both at home and abroad. They will bring out in May a book on "Advanced Golf," by James Braid, the world's champion for the last three years. Notwithstanding its title, the book is not intended only for expert players, but for any one who has once fairly grappled with the early difficulties, even if he has not mastered them. Its aim is to point the way to all who know anything about golf, whether poor players or good ones, to a better and surer kind of game. They also announce for May "Brunhilda of Orr's Island," a new story by William Jasper Nicolls, author of "Gray-stone," etc. As the title suggests, this is a good summer story, with Orr's Island and the charming surroundings of Casco Bay as a setting.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce a volume of lectures delivered before the Lowell Institute in Boston entitled "The Problem of Age, Growth, and Death," by Dr. Charles Sedgwick Minot, Professor of Comparative Anatomy in Harvard University and author of "Human Embryology." The present volume, which is the result of nearly thirty years of study, touches on almost all the branches of biology, dealing with some of its fundamental problems, and presenting the final conclusions of the author. Dr. Minot maintains that some of the established notions concerning the process of growing old are incorrect, and he presents new scientific conceptions to take their place. He asserts, for example, that most of the change which results in old age goes on exceedingly early in the life of the individual, and that in old persons the process of growing old is slower than at any other period. The book centres about the determination of the rate of growth, which has been supplemented by a study of the microscopic changes in the cells of the body which accompany advancing age. They announce for publication early in May a timely book, in view of the awakened interest in mysticism, entitled "Paul the Mystic," by Dr. James M. Campbell, in which the author shows that Paul was not merely a logician, but "first of all a poet," and that the truths upon which Paul's spirit fed were "those which were mystical and vital." To avoid misconception, and in justice to the author of "Paul the Mystic," it should be said that he is not to be confused with Dr. Campbell, the author of "The New Theology."

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY has ready for early publication a new Bible encyclopedia, edited by Rev. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut, D.D., who for many years prepared the notes on the "International Sunday School Lessons." The book will be issued under the title of "Hurlbut's Handy Bible Encyclopedia," and will contain a complete concordance to the Bible, a subject-index, an encyclopedic dictionary of biblical names, customs, places and history, comprising under one alphabetical arrangement all subjects of interest to Bible students which have hitherto been found in the usual Teachers' Aids to the various editions of the Bible, together with much additional matter obtained from the latest authoritative sources, carefully revised and written in language free from the technicalities of scholars. The work will be profusely illustrated and will be ready this month. They are adding to their already very extensive series of over 600 "International" Bibles a complete new line of Teachers' Bibles, containing all necessary and useful aids to Bible study, revised and corrected up to date in the light of the best recent scholarship, and prepared in simple language for the use of the ordinary Bible student or teacher. These Helps will be printed in clear bold-face type which the eye can easily follow. The vital and laborious work of correcting the proofs and certifying the accuracy of these new Helps has been performed by the Rev. Alfred J. P. McClure, the Philadelphia secretary of the General Clergy Relief Fund.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Issues for May in Our New Copyright Fiction

READY MAY 1

MY LOST SELF

By ARTHUR W. MARCHMONT, author of "A Dash for a Throne."

While the circumstances are original, the plot powerful, the love interest intense, the scenes are more romantic than any of his previous novels. The author believes the central idea is the strongest he has ever handled.

READY MAY 15

THE PAUPER OF PARK LANE

By WM. LE QUEUX, author of "Secrets of Monte Carlo."

"The Pauper of Park Lane," an extraordinary story of love and diplomacy. There are stirring scenes in London and Paris and away in the little known Balkans, while from start to finish there is an increasing mystery which is not revealed to the baffled reader until the last line. It deals with a phase of life hitherto entirely unknown.

READY MAY 25

THE FOUR PHILANTHROPISTS

By EDGAR JEPSON, author of "The Admirable Tinker."

"The Four Philanthropists" is a brilliant satire, bubbling with fun, scintillant and alive with unique situations. But the love interests afford a beautifully sympathetic note that runs throughout the story.

We desire to take this opportunity of thanking the trade generally for the cordial reception accorded to our new line of copyright fiction which we are issuing at the rate of three new volumes every sixty days. The extraordinary value given in this new line of original fiction by prominent authors in regular $1.50 style, which can be retailed at less than half of former prices, makes a trade-drawing feature of general trade value to the bookseller.

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890)

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any trade paper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1.50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d (three half-pence) for each week of the year that has passed.

Things Worth While

In The Art of Life Series

The author, at 84, presents the fruit of his wisdom in eight fascinating chapters. An almost youthful work by one of the few survivors of the great period of nineteenth-century letters. 50c. net.

PUBLISHED LAST WEEK

ZUEBLIN, CHARLES

The Religion of a Democrat

The substance of this book is the course of lectures which Professor Zueblin has delivered outside of his regular work at The University of Chicago. The relation of the Church to the State, and of the individual to both is discussed in all its phases. The author's ideas are radical, but will be endorsed by the progressive spirit of the day. $1.00 net.

THE ENDURING NOVELIST OF THE CENTURY

A MILLION AND A HALF OF THESE BOOKS SOLD

A MORE exquisitely decorated Edition de Luxe of a novelist's works would be hard to find. Each volume has its own individual motive for decoration, but all in general harmony with the series. Miss McClure in this edition of Ralph Connor's Works has caught the very spirit of the author and her sketches have drawn forth his continued delight at their soulful interpretation of his characters. Her small sketches and decorations are full of the atmosphere of each particular chapter, and even to the ornamental end papers her work is redolent of Ralph Connor's country.
